

the old hemingway

enters the arena from where the bulls have been driven away

by the love for them of the new generations draws circles in the sand with his finger and sketches bulls and matadors in them mumbling, along with the sea, archimedes' words:

noli tangere circulos meos